NO. 11.

RE-ZONING OCCUPIES BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN ADJOURNED MEETING TUESDAY NIGHT

Proposed Changes in Limits of Business District Discussed; New Tract of Land Registered With City By Land Company.

While no definite changes were decided upon for the re-zoning of the city, several ideas were discussed by the board of city trustees in an adjourned meeting held in the city hall Tuesday evening. Ordinances covering both the fire limits and the zoning of the city have been prepared by City Attorney Davis and are now being discussed before passage.

The business district provides the greatest problem. The residential and manufacturing districts are fairly well defined. One change is to be made in the industrial district by the extension of a line parallel with Magnolia avenue into the "willows" district to divide that area from the residential district which is planned.

From the discussion Tuesday night the new zoning ordinance will provide for a business district on Grand avenue as far as Spruce, and on Linden avenue and San Bruno road the limits of which have not been definitely fixed. In the city, several ideas were discussed by the board of city trustees in an adjourned meeting held in the city hall Tuesday evening. Ordinances covering both the fire limits and the zoning of the city have been prepared by City Attorney Davis and are now being discussed before passage.

Bravo road the limits of which have not been definitely fixed. In the city, several ideas were discussed by the board of city trustees in an adjourned meeting held in the city hall Tuesday evening. Ordinances covering both the fire limits and the zoning of the city have been prepared by City Attorney Davis and are now being discussed before passage.

That type of construction will also be allowed on Grand avenue between Maple and Spruce, but no single family dwellings will be permitted. That was the general trend of the discussion. The board is still open to the views of the public and several meetings will be held before the ordinances are finally passed.

BUILDING PERMITS GRANTED
Angelo Canziani was granted a permit to construct a single garage on his property in high school park.

Joaquin Garcia was granted a permit to build a dwelling in High School Park at a cost of $2,500.

VALLEY PARK SUBDIVISION ACCEPTED

Valley Park Sub-division No. 11 is the name of the newest tract of land opened in this city, according to maps accepted by the city board of trustees in adjourned session Tuesday night. Attorney John W. Coleberd appeared for the land company with maps of the district which is a re-subdivision of a portion of old block 113, a portion of the land on School street, Olive avenue and Armour avenue, all in front of the Martin school.

A resolution referring the maps to City Engineer Kneese, his favorable report on the tract to the board, and a resolution dedicating the streets in the district and accepting the maps were acted upon by the board.

According to Attorney Coleberd the land had been withdrawn from sale for the purpose of re-subdivision. The district is now changed so that the streets are not rectangular in plan but conform to the topography of the land.

PORT DISTRICT BILL PASSES ASSEMBLY

Word was received from T. P. Andrews of the Downtown Association, now in Sacramento, by the board of city trustees in adjourned session Tuesday night, that Assembly Bill No. 11, providing for a port district in San Mateo county, had passed in the assembly. South San Francisco does not favor this bill. City Attorney Davis pointed out that before this city entered into a port district a resolution by the board would be necessary and the people would have to consent. Andrews indicated efforts would be made to kill the bill in the senate.

DEPUTY RESIGNS
Paul Perussina's resignation from the post of deputy police officer was accepted by the board.

In a letter addressed March 3 he outlined the work he had done as deputy and asked whether the board intended placing him on the payroll. Chief of Police Belloni reported that since the letter was written Perussina had turned in his star and resigned.

Further action to have the pole of the Market Street Railway removed from the driveway in front of the Costa house on upper Grand to the property line will be undertaken jointly by City Attorney Davis and Costa. The railway company now wants Costa to pay for removing the pole.

HIT-RUN DRIVER CAUGHT IN COLMA AFTER LONG CHASE

Chased through eight miles of streets in the Mission district of San Francisco, Harry Tipton, 523 Paris street, was captured Sunday by the police after nine shots had been fired to halt his mad course. The capture took place in Daly City after Tipton had exhausted his gasoline.

The chase began at Brazil and Mission streets when Tipton's machine which, it was said, was careening wildly, knocked down two women and a man. A spectator called Police Officer F. Hoepner. Commandeering the automobile of Edward Martin, 1 Lyland street, the policeman gave chase.

Madly dodging pedestrians, automobiles, and street cars, Tipton's machine fled. At Anandaga avenue, it was observed to skid completely around before darting down a side street.

Police Officer Hoepner fired two shots in the air to frighten the fleeing man to which he paid no attention. Seven other shots were fired, some of which embedded themselves in the body of the machine.

At Daly City Constable Landini joined in the chase.

Beside the cemeteries on the state highway, Tipton leaped from his machine which was found to be out of gasoline, and attempted to escape on foot.

Tipton was taken to the Ingle side police station, charged with

MEXICAN GIVEN 30 DAYS AFTER HOUSEBREAKING

A. Lomeli Gutierrez, Mexican, of a South San Francisco hotel, was arrested Sunday morning and pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy before Judge Edward Farrell Monday. He was sentenced to spend 30 days in the county jail. He was arrested by Constable J. Wallace after an attempt to break into the home of Tony Hoyos, 208 Armous avenue. Hoyos fired two shots at him through the door but did not hit him.

At about 9 o'clock Saturday night Uterrez was seen and was all right, but when he appeared later in the evening he was drunk, had a broken nose, bruises all over his body, and black eyes. In that condition he tried to break into the house.

The South San Francisco police believe that with two other Mexicans, with whom he has been seen in a Ford coupe, he is responsible for a number of small housebreaking jobs that have been done lately.

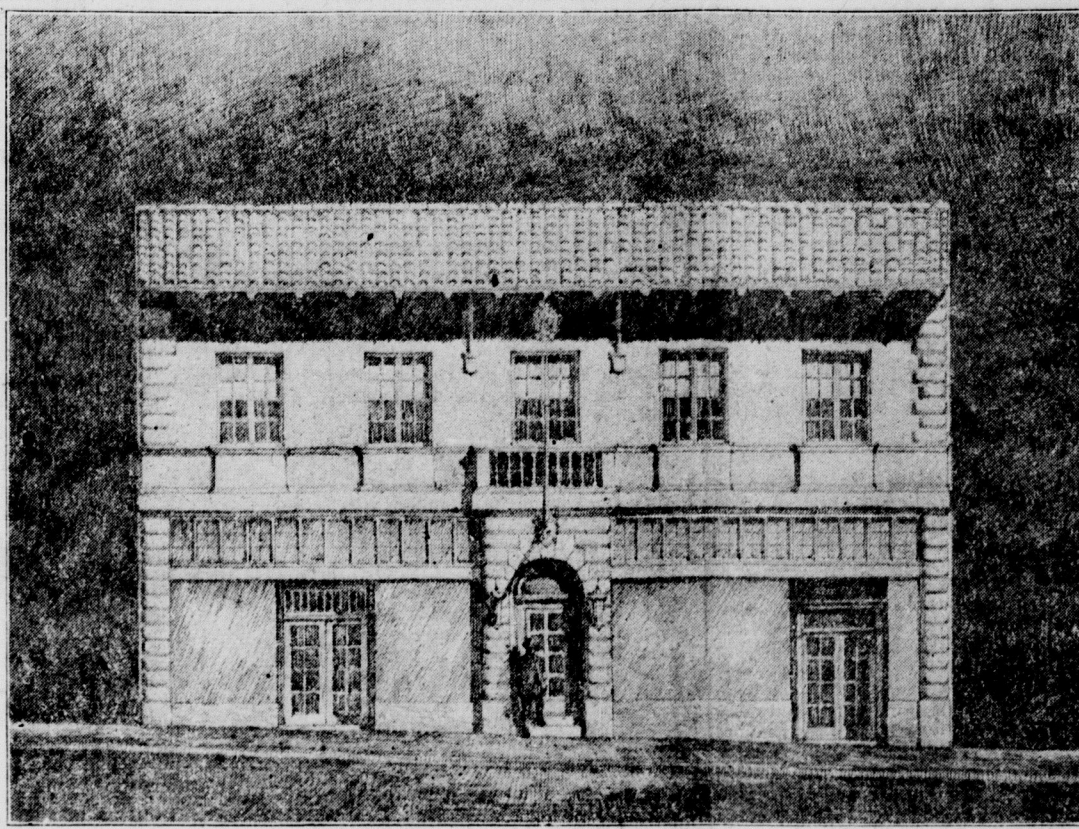

He was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail.

MAN GIVEN TEN DAYS ON DRUNKEN CHARGE

Jose Hernandez was sentenced to spend 10 days in the county jail by Justice of Peace Ed Farrell on Tuesday following his arrest and conviction on a charge of drunkenness and creating a nuisance.

Intoxication and failing to render aid after the accidents.

NEW POSTOFFICE BUILDING

An idea of how the new post-office building, now being constructed at 228 Grand avenue, will appear when finished is furnished in the accompanying sketch furnished by Norberg & Norberg, architects.

The Italian Renaissance style of architecture has been adopted for the front of the building. It will be two stories high and the ground floor will contain one store building and the postoffice. The second story will be occupied by a hotel. Reinforced concrete is being used throughout the structure.

It will be a modern building in every respect. The exterior finish will be of Travertine plaster with a terra cotta tile roof. The building will be erected at a cost of $35,000 for Frank Giffra, owner of the property, who won the government's bid for the post-office recently.

FORMER RESIDENT CALLED BY DEATH

C. J. Hyde Passes Away at His Home in San Francisco

Clayton J. Hyde, a former resident of this city and an employee at the U. S. Naval Radio Station, passed away at his home in San Francisco early Thursday morning after a long illness.

Mr. Hyde was well known in this city, where he resided for a number of years, moving from here about six years ago to make his home in San Francisco. He was a member of South City Lodge No. 832, Loyal Order of Moose, and Toppanoe Tribe No. 111, Improved Order of Redmen, and during his residence here he belonged to Bernard McCaffrey Post No. 85, American Legion. Upon moving to San Francisco he transferred to C. C. Thomas Navy Post No. 244, American Legion, which post had charge of the funeral services.

Mr. Hyde is survived by his wife and his father, Harmon Hyde. He was born in New York 54 years ago.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR TOOL THEFT FROM M. E. CHURCH

A warrant for the arrest of Roy Morgan, 136 First street, San Francisco, on a charge of petty larceny in connection with the disappearance and subsequent pawning of some carpenter's tools from the Methodist church, now under construction, was issued yesterday by City Recorder Ed. Nolan. Alex Ferguson, contractor, is the complaining witness. The warrant was given to Chief of Police Belloni to be served.

Judge Nolan experienced a busy morning with several traffic cases on his calendar. The sum of $15 in fines was levied.

William Burt of this city was given a ten day suspended sentence and ordered to stay in his own section of the city, after he had been convicted of being drunk and disorderly.

Fred Morita of 287 San Jose avenue, San Francisco, and George Culler of San Francisco paid $10 each for possession of intoxicating liquor.

YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOY MOSS BEACH PICNIC

A party of young people of this city journeyed to Moss Beach on Sunday where they enjoyed a picnic. Games and beach sports were enjoyed throughout the day, the party returning home at 6 o'clock. Those who went were: Misses Mildred Grondona, Corrine Bianchi, Eda and Julia Guadagni, Catherine Gaddini, Doris Cattalini, Ida and Pia Nerle, and Messrs. Raymond Grondona, Gus Bianchi, Caesar and Gino Lenosini, and George Martinelli of San Bruno, and Gino Nerle of Moss Beach. Mrs. M. Guadagni chaperoned the group.

MAN HURLED FROM AUTO AS CAR STRIKES TREE PERCHES ON BRANCH

For a few short seconds an unknown man in Pescadero Wednesday found out how the baby featured in "rock-a-bye baby in the tree top" felt when cradle fell out. This was when he toppled from the frail branch of a tree after an intoxicated joy ride through the air.

The stranger and another man were motoring down the coastside. Both were feeling very, very happy, alcoholically speaking. Suddenly the road moved out from under the car and the machine hit a tree. The man in the back seat was hurled through the air by the force of the collision. For a few sensational seconds he perched on the limb, but his trousers refused to hold him and he descended rapidly with his belt and cuffs but minus the rest of his breeches. Neither of the men were hurt but their dignities were ruffled. They sold their car for $15 at the spot and disappeared.

Showers of Money Hits San Carlos

Streets of San Carlos were literally lined with money Sunday morning.

A collector for A. Giuriani Bros., olive oil importers of San Francisco, dropped a wallet containing banknotes and checks as he passed through the town Sunday morning. The wallet opened and the playful breezes chased five and ten dollar bills up and down Main street.

A woman, as yet unidentified, was reported to have hastily picked up a quantity of the bank notes. Then she drove away rapidly in a Ford touring car.

Mrs. A. M. Merta, wife of a San Carlos business man, picked up the remainder of the money, which amounted to $628 in checks and greenbacks. She held it in safekeeping until the collector who had lost it returned. After making a check of his losses, the collector said that $120 in cash was missing.

"It was 'snowing' money here for a while," witnesses declared.

BILLY DOYLE GIVEN A SURPRISE PARTY

A surprise party was given in honor of little Billie Doyle, Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. J. Ricomi of Baden avenue. Five little friends were invited. Games were played and refreshments of ice cream, cake and candy were served. Children's stories, told by Mrs. Ernest Langenbach, were enjoyed by the little ones.

CHARLES YOUNG CALLED BY DEATH

Pioneer Resident of City Dies Suddenly While at Work at Water Plant

Another pioneer resident of this city was summoned last Friday afternoon when Charles Young, superintendent of the South San Francisco Water Company, fell dead while at work on the company's tanks in the hills above the city.

Mr. Young was born in Liverpool, England, on March 5, 1871, and had only celebrated his fifty-fourth birthday the day before death came as a shock to his family and friends.

He came to California in 1894 and in 1896 he came to South San Francisco where he was employed by the Western Meat Company as a scaler. He was employed by that company until 1912 with the exception of three years spent in the plumbing business started by himself, and two trips back to England for short periods.

Since 1912 Mr. Young has been identified with the water company as superintendent. He leaves to mourn his widow, Mrs. Alice Maude Young, one daughter, Edna, and one son, Charles J.; a brother, George W. Young of Pacific Grove, and three sisters, Mrs. Robert Briven of Morgan Hill, Mrs. Phil Harris of Oakland, and Mrs. Frank DuBois of Glendale.

Funeral services were held in the Methodist church on Monday afternoon at 1:45. The Rev. Asa P. Beall officiated and the services were conducted by Francis Drake Lodge No. 376, F. and A. M., of which he was a member. He was a member of the South City Lodge L. O. O. M. The funeral was held from the S. Neri Funeral Home.

ELMER PETERSON CLAIMS A BRIDE

Elmer M. Peterson, employee of the Metal Thermit Corporation, was married on last Wednesday, March 4, in San Rafael, to Miss Francis Merriman of Los Angeles. Peterson is widely known here and has been with the Metal Thermit Company since the factory was opened. He played first base on the company's baseball team in the Enterprise Twilight League last season.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson are making their home in the Cunningham Apartments, 367 Grand avenue. They have postponed their honeymoon until mid-summer, when they will go East to visit Mr. Peterson's parents.

JUDGE DAVIS TALKS BEFORE WOMAN'S CLUB

John F. Davis, city attorney, addressed the woman's club in its monthly meeting last Thursday afternoon in Fraternal Hall, outlining civic matters. He touched upon re-zoning, taxation, bond issues, parks and playgrounds and the Orange avenue extension in the course of a short talk that was well received.

Mrs. Anderson was the other speaker on the program, outlining

MAJOR SKEGGS TOURS ROUTE OF BAYSHORE

Highway Commission Expert Views Proposed Route

Inspection of the proposed route of the Bayshore highway from San Francisco to this city and of the work already completed was made by a party composed of members of the Automotive Department of the San Francisco Examiner and Major J. H. Skeggs of the highway commission on Tuesday morning. The party was conducted on its tour by members of the Bayshore highway committee of the chamber of commerce here. In addition to Major Skeggs, the visitors were Henry Flynn and Virgin Nahl of the Examiner, and Mr. Plymire of the Ford company.

The party was shown over the route to this city and then taken as far as Belle Air Island on the construction now under way. The Examiner plans to have its artist sketch the Bayshore and the territory it will traverse, showing it as it will look when completed and stressing the part under construction. In this manner it will be easy to visualize the project and to realize its necessity to the development of San Francisco and the peninsula.

Members of the chamber of commerce who accompanied the party were Fred Lautze, I. H. Potter, John E. Hoyle, E. C. Peck, F. A. Cunningham, C. B. Hodgkin and P. R. Thompson.

LAS PULGAS ROAD TO BE SURVEYED

New Artery for Peninsula Traffic May Be Opened

REDWOOD CITY, March 12.—A committee to act in an advisory capacity with regard to the surveying of the Las Pulgas road project was appointed by Chairman C. V. Thompson of the county board of supervisors Monday morning at the request of the Redwood City District Real Estate Board. The committee:

C. H. Holt and H. C. Tuchen, Redwood City; Fred Drake and Asa Hull, San Carlos; and W. A. Emmett, Belmont.

The opening of the road will provide a much needed second artery from San Francisco down the Peninsula and will be unsurpassed in scenic beauty even by the Sky-line boulevard. It will greatly relieve the congestion on the highway.

To Redwood City it means the opening up of large tracts of residential districts, and makes available for business or pleasure purposes, the at present unconnected hinterland.

"Pulgas" Means Fleas
The original Alameda de las Pulgas, took its name from the old Spanish rancho de las Pulgas; "pulgas" being the Spanish word for flea, an insect which was abnormally abundant in the district and which the old inhabitants claim are slowly dying out before the inroads of modern civilization. The trail was rebuilt in 1887 and at that time formed the most important link between Los Altos and San Francisco.

Proposed Route
The new road will for the most part, follow the old trail. Branching off the highway at the Reeves school in Burlingame, it will run past the county hospital, then through Hidden Valley and through San Carlos, and will connect up the various country clubs, including Emerald Lake.

In Redwood City, the road will run along Ashley avenues, down the Foothill boulevard, and will emerge in Woodside behind the Menlo Park Country Club. Ultimately it is hoped that Santa Clara county will complete it to Los Altos.

Time Is Ripe
The present time is regarded as ideal for the acquisition of the various rights of way, most of which have been promised as donations by the various land owners. Others are thought to be procurable at extremely reasonable prices by the local real estate board.

The young man was taken ill very suddenly after having done an unusual amount of exercise and he was rushed to the hospital with acute appendicitis. In Memoriam Jessie Sites Little Jessie as a child of hope and prayer and the bringer of joy, was placed in the arms of her loving parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Sites, an hour before full noon on Sunday, the Lord's day, March 3, 1918. She was the first and only grandchild and was welcomed not only by the fond parents, but by a host of other relatives. Love for her in all the family continued and multiplied with the passing years. Not only was she greatly beloved by those near her and in the constraint and urge of that indefinable and preciously sacred influence which kinship so often brings, but by very many others.
We, who were neighbors and more intimate with her, became greatly endeared to her. The better we knew her the more we loved her, and this is high compliment. Purest gold does not tarnish or tire.
Purest worth has enduring values.

Near the close of the year, 1921, messages came to Mrs. George Reid that her father, Mr. Alex Morton, of Portsmouth, Ohio, was seriously ill and might not recover.
She planned immediately to go to her father's bedside. Mrs. Sites seemed anxious to go also, partly to be company for her mother but also to again see her grandfather and other friends there. It was such a natural thing to do, and it seemed a nice thought, too, that Jessie should go. How many things would love to see her! They arrived a full day before the decease of the beloved grandparent, and had a pleasing visit with him.
His death was a wonderful Christian triumph, and their coming was such a delight to him that he felt like the aged Simon of the Bible story, who said when he saw the infant Christ, "Now lettest thy servant depart in peace."

After a precious visit of a number of weeks the home-coming was planned, but this was arrested by the sudden illness of Jessie, which came Tuesday evening, February 17. It was soon discovered to be scarlet fever. This became intense and she suffered very greatly. The little patient was brave and tried to be cheerful for those about her.
Sunday was her worst day and her fever register was high. Everything that love and money could do was done for her, but in vain.
Save from the sweet thought of faithful loving effort, Little Jessie was too frail to stay, and that one who loves children came for her and bore her away to her eternal home. She bade farewell to her feverish body and to her loved ones at 5:45 p. m., Monday, Feb.
23, 1925, lacking ten days of seven years of companionship with her loved ones here on earth.

Before her sickness she expressed desires to return to her papa and also declared she would like to be back home so that she could gather poppies. Five years ago she came over the mountains to California. It was about the same time of the year when her little body was brought again over the same way. A few weeks ago how happily and cheerily she started on her way eastward. A beautiful picture she was. She carried in one hand her testament which she

COMMITTEE OF NINE URGES MOTOR CAR TAX

SACRAMENTO, March 10.—Taxation of motor vehicles to raise a construction fund of $10,000,000 in 1926, increasing thereafter in proportion to the increase in the number of registered vehicles, to complete the state highway system in not to exceed fourteen years, is the definite recommendation of the Committee of Nine in its final report to the governor filed March 6.

To meet the urgent need for the construction of bridges and the elimination of dangerous railroad grade crossings, a bond issue of $25,000,000 in short term bonds, for these purposes only, is also recommended to supplement the annual construction revenues.

Report Is Lengthy
The investigation of the highway system, authorized by the legislature of 1923, required the greater part of the time of the committee during the year 1924. For several months, it has been engaged in the compilation of its report which covers more than 700 pages of printed matter, including graphs, charts, and other data.

After considering numerous plans for financing future state highway construction, the committee came to the conclusion that California second only to New York in the number of registered motor vehicles, must abandon the costly bond issue method and adopt a "pay as you go" plan if the system is ever to be completed.

Gasoline Tax
Having recommended that future state highway construction be borne largely by motor vehicle owners, the committee believes that the particular form of the tax finally determined upon should be the one most agreeable to the motor vehicle owner, so long as it is equitable and produces the necessary revenues. The gasoline tax, the committee says, is as popular as any tax could be; is conveniently paid, easily collected and administered, and is the only practical method of reaching highway users from other states.

Inasmuch as the license fee in California is the lowest in the country, the committee also believes a reasonable increase in the present flat rate plate tax is justified.

The report brings out the fact that California expenditures for primary construction during 1924 will total only $3.33 per registered motor vehicle, the lowest of all the states, despite the fact that the motor vehicle owner receives the first and most direct benefit from improved highways. The average for the entire country is $22.25, while Nevada heads the list with expenditures of $136.41 per vehicle.

Increase $6.25 Per Car
Present motor vehicle taxes in California are 2.5 per cent of the cost of operation of the average

S. F. TO SELL HETCHY POWER

Offers from municipalities and irrigation districts of the state are to be solicited to use Moccasin creek hydro-electric power of the Hetch Hetchy project, under the provisions of a resolution unanimously passed by the board of supervisors of San Francisco.

The joint committees of public utilities and finance approved the measure at a meeting in which City Engineer O'Shaughnessy participated.

S. P. GATEMAN DIES SUDDENLY

REDWOOD CITY, March 12.—Carl A. Olsen, age 62, a member of the H. J. Reilly Camp No. 14, Spanish War Veterans, of Redwood City, dropped dead Saturday afternoon at the railroad crossing on Laurel avenue in San Mateo near the San Mateo Junior College.

Olsen had been ill for some time. He lived at 924 Fourth avenue, San Mateo and had no near relatives. He was gateman for the Southern Pacific Company.

Unemployment is rapidly increasing in Denmark.

vehicle. If a construction fund is raised by increasing the gasoline tax one cent a gallon and the license fee to $5, motor vehicle taxes will represent 3.5 per cent of the annual cost of operation, the report says, representing an average increase of only $6.25 per vehicle, including trucks.

If this increase is made by the legislature, the average tax on pleasure automobiles in California will be $16.25 for license fees and gasoline taxes. The average, including trucks, will be $20.42 while the average for the entire country in 1924 was $21.38.

Taking into consideration state and county expenditures for maintenance and construction of highways from 1912 to 1923, the committee finds that only 13.7 per cent of the cost has been met by taxation on motor vehicles. The other $6.3 per cent has come from state corporation taxes and taxes on general property within the counties.

Classification
Another important recommendation is the classification of all state highways into a primary and a secondary system. The primary system includes the intercity highways, major interstate connections, county seat laterals, other important laterals, and major recreational highways and it is recommended that at least 75 per cent of the construction funds be expended on these roads until completed.

The secondary system includes the minor interstate connections, minor recreational highways, and local development highways. If additional roads are added by the legislature, it is recommended that they be placed in the secondary

MONTEREY AND SALINAS BAYSHORE ROAD

Bayshore highway headquarters of the San Francisco Down Town Association at Sacramento have received copies of a resolution from the Monterey and the Salinas County Chambers of Commerce urging that a Bayshore cut-off be incorporated in the state highway system. The chambers also endorsed the support of all civic bodies in their counties for the Bayshore highway. Copies of the resolutions were also forwarded to all assemblymen and senators, the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, and to Harvey M. Toy, chairman of the California Highway Commission.

Official communications were received from the Palo Alto, San Bruno and Patterson Chambers of Commerce commending the work of the San Francisco Down Town Association in its fight for the Bayshore highway.

FRY'S NAME PRESENTED BY HICKEY

REDWOOD CITY, March 12.—A motion to appoint George W. Fry of La Honda milk inspector of San Mateo county under the provisions of a county ordinance was blocked Monday at a meeting of the board of supervisors.

The motion was put by Supervisor Thomas L. Hickey of South San Francisco, who declared that dairymen of the county were "getting anxious" about the lack of an inspector. Hickey said that he had conferred with Supervisor John MacBain, who was not present at today's session, and that he (MacBain) had stated he was ready for the appointment, and that he favored Fry for the job.

At this point Dr. C. V. Thompson, chairman of the board in the absence of MacBain, said he was not in favor of taking up the matter at this time.

Hickey put the motion, which was seconded by Supervisor Rosalie M. Brown. On roll call, Hickey and Mrs. Brown voted aye. Dr. Thompson and Supervisor Manuel Francis opposed the motion. The latter explained that he had agreed not to take up the matter until all of the members of the board were present. The motion was lost.

Franchise Forfeited
The bay bridge franchise granted by the board in 1923 to Frank E. Webb, and which was subsequently assigned to the San Francisco Memorial Bridge Corporation, expired March 5 this year. Webb today offered a resolution forfeiting all rights to the franchise. The resolution was adopted and Webb is now in a position to apply for a new franchise, in accordance with his announcement last week that he had the project financed.

Ask Road Survey
That property owners along the Pescadero-La Honda road have been building new fences on the route was the statement made by Chairman Thompson, who recommended that County Engineer George Kneese determine the correct width of the road for the board's benefit, so that the matter Thompson spoke of could be regulated. This was ordered done.

Seek Better Lights
Information as to why street lights in Lomita Park are dim was sought in a letter to the supervisor from the secretary of the Lomita Park Development Association. On motion of Supervisor Hickey, the matter was referred to the Pacific Gas & Electric Company.

The same association also asked if it would be possible for the board to pass an ordinance requiring building permits to be submitted to the supervisors before structures were erected. The clerk was instructed to reply that the board had no authority to pass such an ordinance.

Property owners on Menlo avenue in Menlo Park asked for three additional street lights. The matter was referred to Supervisor MacBain.

On motion of Supervisor Hickey, the county purchasing agent will be asked to recommend at the next meeting a person or persons qualified to take an inventory of supplies at the Community Hospital at Beresford.

The board passed a great number of claims against the county treasury.

'BOTTLE NECK' TO BE ENLARGED DURING SPRING

REDWOOD CITY, March 12.—According to "California Highways," official publication of the California Highway Commission, "widening of the Peninsula highway through San Mateo county, Division IV, inaugurated by the California Highway Commission during the coming spring and summer, when the congestion on the 'bottle neck' between San Bruno and Daly City will be attacked."

Preparing Plans
Plans and specifications are now being prepared for the section between Cypress Lawn Cemetery and San Bruno, a distance of 4.39 miles, and studies are being made by Division Engineer J. H. Skeggs of possible solutions of the situation existing in the immediate vicinity of the cemeteries, where improvement is hampered and the highway badly congested by the presence of street car tracks of the United Railroads.

"The San Bruno-Cypress Lawn improvement will conform in every way to the work completed south of San Bruno. Eight-foot concrete shoulders, eight to ten inches in thickness will be laid on either side of the present twenty-four-foot pavement and the latter will be resurfaced with several inches of asphalt concrete, making the new pavement forty feet in width. If the situation regarding the car lines on the highway right of way can be worked out, this improvement will be carried northward to Colma.

Daily City Widening
In Daly City, three-foot concrete shoulders seven inches thick will be placed on either side of the present pavement, extending it the full width of the street to the curb line. This work has already been authorized.

"These improvements have been made necessary by the tremendous traffic which the Peninsula route, the only completed state highway into San Francisco, is compelled to carry. The work is being financed from the state's share of the motor vehicle feed and gasoline tax fund."

THAT MATTER OF RE-ZONING

More Interest Should Be Taken in the Matter by the Taxpayers of the City

A few residents of Miller avenue appeared at the meeting of the city board of trustees on Tuesday night to give their views on the re-zoning of the city. Notices have been published over a period of six or seven weeks notifying citizens of the meetings, but the response was very small.

The trustees are doing their best to zone the city to the satisfaction of all. Zoning is necessary for the protection of property of every kind. Many elements enter into restricting the city and are to be considered before the ordinance is finally passed. The board desires the opinions of the taxpayers in the matter.

The discussion of zoning is to be continued in the regular session next Monday night. An opinion placed before the board now may save lots of grumbling and grief at some future time when the individual seeks to build on property he has purchased or will purchase.

PRESERVES HIS DIGNITY

Illinois University Law Senior Beats Up Offensive College Sophomore for Assuming to Carry a Cane—and Is Arrested

We don't know how it will come out, but a great principle was put to the test at the University of Illinois the other day, and whoever are truly interested in the progress of our American universities and in the preservation of sacred college traditions will tensely await the outcome. The matter was reduced to the low status of a personal suit in the law courts, involving allegations of assault and battery, or something of that sort, but underlying this action is a great and lofty ideal which transcends all such superficialities.

The seniors in the University of Illinois Law School reserve to themselves exclusively the right to carry canes. It is a badge; it is a distinction to be preserved and safeguarded to the ultimate limit, else what might not happen and come to pass at dear old Illinois, breaking down, no doubt, the Illinois spirit and leading to all sorts of disintegrations, the little leaks in the walls of tradition through which the weakening waters of violation will trickle and spread and maybe wash out the whole works. Only law seniors can carry canes; it is a tradition.

What, then, was to be done when a group of sophomores in the undergraduate college appeared on the campus swinging walking sticks? It was an attack on the dignity of the law seniors; it was a violation of tradition. Well, the president of the university law club made the move towards preserving the sanctity of this tradition which was hallowed by goodness knows how many years of ennobling observance. He encountered one of these sophomores in a tea room conducted by the university wrestling coach and there, it is alleged and set forth, he did set upon the sophomore and his illicit stick, using his own with righteous indignation and effect. So the soph had him pinched. That shows what happens if you let any incipient disregard of a college custom pass unrebuked and unchastised. The nerve of a sophomore having a law senior arrested, anyhow, to say nothing of having him arrested for taking proper measures to discourage violation of customs.

And worse may come yet. The university, it is hinted, may bar canes altogether. Will it be worth while to be a law senior, then? Or to be a University of Illinois student of any sort? What will the old college be with this characteristic old custom gone?

Will the wrestling coach have any heart then to keep on with his tea room? Will any real son of old Illinois have any heart to drink tea with the old place so changed?

There is one element that disturbs us more deeply than any other in this crucial affair, however. We believe that we could work ourselves around by a process of reasoning and dwelling on the inherent right of Americans to personal liberty as superior even to the demands of tradition until we got ourselves into a frame of mind where we could uphold the sophomore as an American, though a fool, and condemn the law student, though a senior and a fool. But we are told that the sophomores who took to carrying canes are members of a "small group of literati." That lets us out and we're off them. Sophomores and literati and carrying canes! Tradition or not, we can't help feeling there may have been some justification for beating up those particular juvenile provocatives to crime.

ROAD BUILDING IN CALIFORNIA

The cost of the construction of highways in California has increased by leaps and bounds since 1912 and accounts to a large extent for the increased amount of money necessary for the completion of the California highway system, according to the engineering department of the National Automobile Club.

The present highways in California may be divided into three classes: First, graded and gravelled; second, asphalt macadam; and third, concrete. In 1912, according to figures prepared by the California State Highway Commission, at the request of the National Automobile Club, the average cost of a mile of graded road was $7,205. Last year, this average cost was three times as great, or $22,058. In 1912, the asphalt macadam type of highway cost an average of $7,112 per mile, while in 1924 this rate increased about 50 per cent with an average of $10,503.

The greatest advance has been the cost of concrete pavement which shows an average cost of $8,885 per mile in 1912 and $36,714 per mile in 1924.

Traffic conditions on a portion of this uncompleted highway system of California would not warrant paving the roads, but on the assumption that half should be paved with asphalt macadam and the other half simply graded, the cost would be $76,848,927.

Due to the increase in volume and weight of traffic, the need of funds for reconstruction, maintenance and repair of highways is constantly increasing. Roads as constructed under the early plans of the State Highway Commission of California, proved too narrow and too light. Under the present law, the only funds available for new roads for the next seven years total $19,826,302.

Based on the average cost per mile, the cost of grading the 2,814 miles of state highway yet to be completed, would be $62,071,212. To pave this mileage with asphalt macadam would cost $91,626,654, and to pave these roads with concrete would cost $165,385,408.

The argument has been proposed that the law be changed so as to make available for new construction, a portion of the funds which are now used for reconstruction and repair, but this will not solve the difficulty, as the amount needed for these purposes will increase from year to year rather than decrease.

The increase in the cost of construction per mile in 1924 over that of 1925 is as follows: Grading 206 per cent, asphalt macadam 48 per cent, concrete 315 per cent.

A careful analysis of the highway situation in California makes it apparent that funds must be provided in the immediate future for the carrying out of California's great highway building program.

IT WORKS BOTH WAYS

"One good way to make the United States dry is to outlaw liquor in the rest of the world," is the way Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, secretary of the World League Against Alcohol, expresses himself. He declares that this country can never have complete national prohibition enforcement until the remainder of the world co-operates. When the rum-running activities and smuggling on a lesser scale are observed in their present proportions, the public will agree with Dr. Cherrington. But the converse of what Dr. Cherrington says is also true. One way to make the rest of the world dry is to start the drying up process from the United States, and then spread the movement in all directions. This plan, too, is getting a start.

The day will come, no doubt, when alcoholism will be a world outlaw. It may not come very soon, but at that will probably come sooner than most of us expect. Our national prohibition amendment came into being far sooner than many of us expected.

A statue of the Prince of Wales to be done in gold is contemplated by the Britishers in some part of their empire. With the stock of royalty in general declining at so fast a rate in the world the persistence of the adulation in which the British heir apparent is held is difficult to explain, unless perhaps there is an extraordinary value recognized in the last of any species.

The Blossom Festival will be a specially important event for all of us this year because Earl Turner, a composer of whom we are all very proud, has composed special music for the occasion. This is a great step in the right direction. Our great annual festival should steadfastly be utilized for the advancement of the many arts which can be employed in the proper celebration of so wonderful an event as the coming of spring in the Santa Clara valley.—San Jose News.

WHO'S WHO in the HIGH SCHOOL

Miss Rue Randall Clifford, a native daughter—the one and only one of the teaching staff of the high school—is Miss Rue Randall Clifford, head of the English department. She was born in San Francisco, and received her early education in the James Lick Grammar School and the Girls' High School. She is a descendant of the hardy pioneers of the Revolution, and as a D. A. R. she takes a great deal of pride in tracing her ancestry back to the Pilgrims of New England. English and music were her major subjects in the University of California. In athletics she participated in interclass track. Upon the completion of her university course a scholarship was awarded to her. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega.

When the local high school was first organized she was appointed to take charge of music and English, and for twelve years she has held the position of head of the English department. She is one of the first three teachers to start the high school, the other two being Miss Ivy Wilkinson and the late George C. Britton. The small front rooms on the upper floor of the present large grammar school was where the high school held its first sessions. Later the smaller of the group of three buildings housed it. She is therefore the only teacher on the staff who has seen the high school gradually outgrow its quarters and increase in size to the large school of today; the one person who has known all the teachers who have come and gone; the one individual under whom practically every high school student has studied; and the one who takes much pleasure in "having had the good fortune to know all the graduates of the South San Francisco High School."

Physical Fitness Increases Mental Efficiency
Her course in English stresses public speaking. It includes oratory, debating, jury trials, and dramatic art. She wants all students to enjoy good books, to write good letters. In public speaking, personal appearance is important to be able to stand erect, to be able to use their hands and feet easily and gracefully.

She appreciates the necessity of a fine body to support a fine mind, and has felt the urge to develop athletics. Four summers in recent years have been spent at the University of California, specializing in music and athletics, particularly basketball under Walter Christie. Two summers ago she received special instruction in soccer and hockey at Chautauqua, N. Y., under Dr. Savage of Oberlin College.

Miss Clifford has the rare faculty and the rare opportunity of teaching bodily control in the class and physical development on the field. For many years the local high school girls have been considered the best sports on the peninsula. The girls' volleyball team has won the peninsula championship four out of five years, and last year was permanently awarded the H. A. Cavassa Cup. The girls' unlimited basketball team has won the championship cup for two years, and is the only team that has ever beaten the San Jose team in eight years. In the past three years, the girls' track team ranked fourth place two different years, and last year placed second. The hockey team took third place in the Peninsula League this year, and second place last year, losing only the final championship game.

Develops Students Who Succeed
The students who excel in athletics carry a correspondingly high record in scholarship. Valuable training is received by students who participate in the plays which she directs several times during each year. Her well-rounded four year English course has insured the students' successful entrance into college, and promotes efficiency in any undertaking.

She is not only the thorough English teacher, but is the snappiest woman athletic coach on the peninsula. In addition she is a pleasing musician—a pianist of no mean ability, and has a most charming voice. She has organized and directs the glee club, and all vocal musical events in the school are under her direction. Someone has said of her that "Miss Clifford possesses the most profound faith in human kind of any person I ever knew." The development of the boys and girls of the high school is a real passion to which she devotes her life.
